Identity Developer | Graphic Designer

Various

Worked on multiple projects, focused mostly on defining visual styles and usability of digital products (UX/UI), while also developing brand identities. My primary focus with any brand is to develop a fully functional system that would be scalable and easy to manage.

I found myself wearing many hats on a day-to-day basis, working on digital and print design, user and interface designs, copywriting, brand management, and digital marketing. In each project I've worked closely with product and executive management, always keeping consistency and the final user in mind to provide the best service possible.
